PHILOSOPHY:

My philosophy is to provide preventive and therapeutic pastoral family therapy to enrich family living. Individuals and families have "dreams" but sometimes they don't know how to make their dreams come true. That's where marriage and family therapy can help. My focus is to help the whole family even though one person may be experiencing/expressing most of the pain. I'm sensitive to the needs of all the family members as they move through the family life cycle process. Family Life is a process and change is inevitable. When problems arise, the stressors and transitions are sometimes overwhelming, but counseling can help the family move through these stressors more productively and positively. If it affects the marital dyad, the treatment would be for them. If it's an adolescent problem, I would involve the family. I abide by the code of ethics for the State of Oregon and the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT).
